PIONEER WASHER.
E. G. BOLTER,
AGENT FOR OREGON AND WASHINGTON TERRITORY.

THIS CELEBRATED WASHING MACHINE IS now for the first time introduced to the Oregon public It is unrivalled for its simplicity, durability and the rapidity and ease of its action Washing the dirtiest clothes perfectly clean in from five to ten minutes, with but slight labor, and lasting with proper care, for ten years The wear and tear of clothing in washing by this machine is vastly less than by any other known process of washing It does its work by a reverse motion in forcing the water through the clothes.

It having a tight cover, the steam thus assists materially in cleansing the clothes, and also avoids the inhaling of steam from hot suds

This Machine captured the Special Premium at the California State Fair, and all that have used it pronounce it an invaluable adjunct to all housekeepers and families and washing men and washing women

It has been extensively introduced throughout the State of California and receives the universal commendation of all who have used it

THE COUNTY RIGHTS, now untold, will be sold at a bargain if applied for soon

A New England Woman in Oregon

(Correspondence of the Portland (Maine) Transcript)

ASTORIA, Oregon June 1d 1867

MR EDITOR —The little town from which I date my letter is situated about fifteen miles from the mouth of the Columbia river, on a narrow strip of land lying between the river and the hills Before it becomes a large city it is expected that it will submit, as San Francisco did to a shoveling of its hills into the river All persons familiar with Irving's Astoria, will remember that it was originally a fur station established under the auspices of John Jacob Astor, before the war of 1812 and that during that war it was transferred in a not altogether creditable manner into the hands of the Northwest Company which at that period monopolized the fur trade of British America The treaty of Ghent nominally restored it to the jurisdiction of the United States, but for many years after this event it continued to be a depot of the English traders One of the old settlers of this neighborhood tells me that in 1849 there were at Astoria, about nine or ten families of pure blood and some two or three in which the dusky hue of the aboriginal American was tempered by European blood To the same individual I am indebted for the fact that in 1850, Astoria "took a start" and has continued to increase steadily but slowly since that time The population at the present time, is variously reported from two to five hundred The latter who takes the census does not seem to have been in these parts recently The town is regularly laid out The houses are mostly wooden buildings of two stories, neat and comfortable, almost without exception, while a few even boast some architectural merit For public offices there are, besides the Custom House two hotels, one church and a Masonic Hall, which is used for lectures on secular subjects and on Spiritualism, the latter being considered too decidedly subversive of everything orthodox to be permitted a hearing in the church In spite of this fashioning a fair proportion of the inhabitants contrive to see visions and dream dreams. There is even an occasional sprinkling of the old fashioned ghost. One lady, while walking by the shore in broad day light, behold, advancing toward her what she supposed to be an ordinary mortal with a blue ribbon on her hat Under this impression the lady irreverently stooped to tie her shoe, but on resuming the perpendicular, she was amazed to see that the supposed mortal had vanished, blue ribbon and all There was no building or shelter of any kind at hand of sufficient size to screen the hooped feminine of the nineteenth century, quicksands were quite out of the question in that locality—but one interpretation was possible It was a veritable ghost, commissioned, probably to signify the entire satisfaction of the spiritual world, with that particular style of head gear adorned with blue ribbon.

The chief event of public interest at Astoria, is the arrival of the steamer A boat comes twice every week from Portland, bringing the up country passengers, and once every week a huge, black ocean steamer sweeps majestically into the mouth of the Columbia, bringing the California mail, a specimens of the almond eyed Chinese, and a few complimentary box of fresh vegetables for some body fortunate enough to have friends in sunny California Sometimes one can discern the odor of bananas from the Sandwich Islands, and after the steamer leaves, you walk upon the wharves and see casks and barrels mysteriously marked, and strange machines which you gaze upon with wonder and rack your brain in the vain effort to discover to what department they are to make one turn equal to six. One day we found a very elaborate piece of mechanism, beautifully painted and inscribed "Separator" What could be the design of its construction? We walked around it, peeped into it, and scrutinized it carefully, but to no purpose We stepped at length, and re-read the inscription, "Separator," when suddenly the truth flashed upon us. We remembered that the applications for divorce were still very numerous in Oregon, and the sensible man undoubtedly the invention of some lawyer of superior mechanical genius, for facilitating the separation of unwilling partners in the connubial state After that, we walked home and fell asleep reflecting on the rapidity of the age in all departments of human industry

But the most exciting event, which has stirred the blood of Astoria for some time past, is a recent sale of the principal part of its territory Years ago this tract was purchased by Judge O., at a price greatly below its present value Wishing to divest himself of this portion of his territorial domain the Judge invented a "scheme," which could not fail to secure the desired end He divided said territory into six hundred lots, which he valued at the "ruinously low rate" of fifty dollars per lot In describing these lots differed widely, some being situated on the hill sides, and covered with trees or stumps, others were on the flats, which at high water are entirely covered by the water of the Columbia river, others again were in the heart of the town, worth some six hundred or a thousand dollars, and one lot contained a beautiful gothic cottage, valued at five thousand dollars Now the Judge is a gentleman of much sensibility and wishing to save the purchasers from the indelicacy of walking up and selecting a six hundred dollar lot and putting down in return for it but fifty dollars he determined to confide the distribution to two receptacles supposed to be endowed with supernatural discernment I am aware that such a superficial observer this might have the appearance of a lottery—and I will say for the benefit of those, who do not find prima facie evidence to the contrary in the fact that your correspondent purchased a ticket or rather made an investment—that the difference between a "scheme" and a lottery is very marked The blank is a great feature in the lottery indeed, it is the principal feature, while in the "scheme" there are no blanks, for every fifty dollars paid down one receives in return a deed of land more or less valuable at the moment of delivery, and steadily increasing in value as Astoria develops in population and resources so that, should it become as large as New York, the fifty dollars will become quite a little fortune Your correspondent drew a water lot I say drew—such is the poverty of the English language, that one cannot always express one's self in a style quite above suspicion, but should the "scheme" become a regular business feature of the country, a proper vocabulary will no doubt be forthcoming—This water lot is accessible at low tide in a tall pair of rubber boots I am vigorously cultivating the friendship of two stout swimmers, and when their affection has reached the total indifference to life and limb degree, I shall propose an excursion to my estate As it is the first bit of real estate I ever possessed, I have a great desire to realise a handsome sum from it My present plan is to keep it until it is surrounded by wharves and warehouses, then to erect a stuff factory upon it, and by this means smother my neighbors into compliance with my terms Of course I expected the cottage, and I have not yet learned how these receptacles excuse themselves for this oversight I had determined to give a pen nut party and to air my generous views in unanticipated ways I warn my rents against forming any conception of a peanut as from such data as the peanuts of the East the peanut of the Western coast has a size which is beyond comparison with the same product in the East Indeed, I can conceive of nothing wholly superior to all forms of temptation possessed by the world, the flesh and the devil, over the fascination of a great fat California peanut

Opposite Astoria, and a little above the mouth of the river, stands the little fishing village of Chinook, very busy just now in netting salmon, in which the river abounds Chinook consists of a few huts two good houses and a store, all under the supervision of a gentleman from Maine, who takes the census, and by his energy contributes handsomely maintains the native State A delightful walk from Chinook, through the woods for miles and a half a mile, brings you to the beach, an eminence fifteen hundred feet high and at this season covered with flowers According this hill at the little whole some fatigue for which one is amply compensated a beautiful scene spread out before you, is unfolded you behold the low peninsula of Point Adams on the South, the promontory of Cape Disappointment on the North, and between the two the broad Columbia, affording to the unprofessional eye a magnificent scope for all manner of oratorical display very bountifully supplied with shallows and a long nice knowledge of the river. I confess I have those hidden sands occasion some nervousness as I sail over them, but I am assured by old navigators that it was only the first time that I felt nervous in crossing the Chinook—it was only the first time that I felt nervous in crossing the Columbia river bar, and a strong wind prevailed—we were bringing over Col S under especial commission from his pretty little wife—when suddenly he seized the broom and inverting it, plunged it into the river How much water does this boat draw, I inquired anxiously "Two feet," was the reply Again and again the broom came up dripping from at least three feet until there was no farther need of sounding

This section of country enjoys, with Oregon and Washington Territory generally, at least four months of pouring rain, and a very considerable allowance for two months more For a being not quite amphibious this moist state of things is rather severe How a pretty woman with fine clothes must suffer during an Oregon winter, would be too hard a task for my imagination

But at last the rain ceases and the sun comes out in measureless splendor—it is a scene of enchantment—the glorious blue sky overhead—the freshness and luxuriance of vegetable life—the sparkling waters and the lofty hills covered with evergreen—awaken all that is joyous in the heart and enable you to understand the enthusiasm of the early settlers

Portland, Oregon, is not a large city, yet its distance from the sea and the slightly miasmatic character of the Willamette valley occasions a demand for a place of resort during the summer months To meet this demand the "Summer House" has been erected at Tillamook Head This promontory is about fifteen miles south of Point Adams It reminds one, familiar with the harbor of Portland, Maine of White Head, which it resembles in form and height The "Summer House" is separated from the beach by a narrow strip of grassy land and a thicket of low trees. A beautiful little stream, famous for its trout, flows within a yard of the house, and in the woods, close at hand, elk are found During my stay at the "Summer House," a party returned from the chase who had been so fortunate as to capture three of these fleet denizens of the wilds Bears are also found in these woods One day while the rest of our party were engaged in fishing, I retired a little way into the woods and wrapping myself in my waterproof went to sleep under a tree. After an hour or so of undisturbed repose, I awoke to learn that the fresh tracks of a bear had been discovered close to my place of repose There was nothing alarming in this, as from the indifference with which the bears in this country generally regard humans, I have no reason to suppose my recent neighbor would have considered a little Yankee schoolmarm a particularly precious tit bit One of the Eastern ladies who came out with me, was one day riding by herself, in the woods of Washington Territory, when suddenly she came upon a bear. To add to her terror, the saddle turned in her effort to flee, and she was obliged to dismount and readjust it, but Sir Bruin only gazed at her calmly and then slowly withdrew, as any gentlemanly beast will as soon as he discovers his presence to be disagreeable to a lady But the list of attractions at the Summer House are not exhausted when we enumerate the fine beach, the grandeur of old ocean, the myriads of beautiful flowers, the dark forest, the elk hunting and the trout fishing Besides these there is a canoe ride upon the trout stream, and a horseback ride—the digging of clams, that not only surpass in flavor any I ever before tasted, but they have a size which startles them ambitious of classification with the oyster and roses, and the big things generally which characterize this coast But this is not all—there are also crabs, huge, of course, indeed, one may predicate size of everything Pacific, and here neither animal nor vegetable product loses delicacy of flavor by increase in size, as is apt to be the fact in other localities. The Summer House itself consists of a range of low buildings, kept with such decency and neatness that one is likely to suspect quaker blood in the establishment, while the cookery is positively a fine art Dr Bellows, you remember, declared himself unwilling to risk his reputation by stating all the facts he could command in regard to California, and I am almost afraid to finish the summary of the attractions at the Summer House, by adding what is nevertheless true, that during the summer months there are to be found in the fields and woods some eight varieties of delicious berries growing in true Oregonian luxuriance The house affords the purest cream in big pitchers, and the visitors usually defer their coming until the berries are ripe Our party was too early for the delicacies, but we are to go again in two weeks, when it is expected that the salmon berry will be ripe This berry is, as its name indicates, salmon colored, in form and size it is like a blackberry The Indians of this country had a superstition that if the salmon were taken from the water before this berry became ripe they would desert the river. Is there any place of recreation on the Atlantic coast that can boast of as many attractions as Tillamook Head? I think not.

GOLD DISCOVERIES —The gold mines on Willow creek and Sweetwater, (inaptly called the Green river mines) are still in the uncontested possession of the Indians During the last few days, however, several parties of a dozen each, well armed and equipped, have started there, determined, if necessary, to fortify and hold their ground, and it is said that a large company from Montana are on the march thither. Although your correspondent has purchased a half dozen bottles, labeled "warranted to preserve the hair," and used them most plentifully, he has not yet succeeded in convincing himself that it is not altogether prudent to go over to the new mines He has a passion for gold ore, likewise he much affects his golden locks Reliable parties, who have been at the new diggings, report the quartz richer than any before discovered, with every indication that the leads are numerous and extensive. Throughout a very large district of country, the ground is covered with float rock, nearly every piece of which discloses the presence of the precious metals These mines have long been known to exist, and there is said to be a brilliant prospect of controversy, legal and otherwise I am informed that the identical leads lately located and taken up were discovered, claimed and located two or three years ago a mining district organized, and the recorder duly elected at Fort Bridger No work of consequence was done, because of the hostility of the Indians, who drove out the first as well as the last adventurers If the mines are as rich and extensive as reported to be, the first claimants will probably be as indisposed to relinquish their right to the last comers as those latter are in relinquishing their claims to Mr Lo! A few days since there was another stampede from these parts for new discoveries said to have been made about forty miles from the stage road Some of the stampeders have returned with a huge disgust, but others have remained, determined to prospect further —Corresp ndent Bulletin

A NEW ECONOMY OF POWER —Some ingenious Yankee has invented a machine of the business and pleasure combined description, which is rather amusing The machine is called the "Power swing," and consists of a wheel, cog and treadle arrangement, by which the swinger can, with the foot not only do his own swinging easily, but may at the same time set in motion a churn, a woodsaw, a pump or a washing apparatus, as he pleases It is, in fact, a case of "pay-your-money and take your choice" combination A country editor has had experience on one of these swings and says it reminded him of the gentle and easy motions of the cradled deep, without any fear of shipwreck or sea sickness" Victims of the soapy sisterhood may henceforth enjoy the luxury of doing their own washing Every man may become his own woodsawyer Delicate and overworked mothers can rock the cradle, sew, and churn the butter in a manner highly conducive to health and comfort A further improvement may be suggested a hand organ or other instrument might be connected with the swing, and the household labors performed with the double accompaniment of restful motion and refreshing harmony

There is a traditional anecdote of Richard Baxter which is supposed never to have appeared in print, but was very popularly current forty years ago in the west of England, and in the counties bordering on North Wales Richard Baxter was born at Rowtown, in Shropshire, in 1615 When he lost his wife by consumption, for the edification of other pious non conformists, a "broad sheet," headed "Last Words of Mrs Baxter" This "broad sheet" still extant, but very scarce and dear to the hearts of all bibliomaniacs, had an immense sale, and the printer very shortly afterward brought out a second and spurious "broad sheet," headed, "More Last words of Mrs. Baxter" Richard Baxter, unable to endure this [illegible] a small handbill, with the concise as [illegible] 'Mrs. Baxter did not say anything else"

FRIDAY MORNING, SEPTEMBER 6, 1867.

The California Election.

The wires having been down almost the whole of yesterday, no further intelligence is received relative to the California election. The reports received the day previous are insufficient to base an opinion upon as to the general result. We expect, however, that a majority of the Republican ticket is elected, though the candidate for Governor may be defeated owing to the division in the Republican party and the candidacy of Fay, who undoubtedly drew off a good many votes from Gorham.

An Intelligent Writer.

The city organ continues to devote a considerable part of its space to the discussion of city affairs, with what success may be judged from its former efforts. A day or two since it made the statement that "the Recorder's salary for trying cases arising under the city ordinances was $1,200 a year, and the Council has reduced it to $300." It must be evident to every one who has the smallest knowledge of the administration of our city government that this statement proceeds from the same pen which produced those very intelligible articles on city finances that appeared in the "organ" some time ago. A simple recital of one or two facts which are within everybody's knowledge will materially weaken the reliability of the assertions quoted above. First, the Recorder of this city has never received a salary of $1,200 a year. Second, he has never received a salary at all. Neither the present Recorder nor any former one was ever paid a "salary" for his services. The emoluments of the office are derived solely from fees. Again, after having stated that the salary of the Recorder was $1,200 a year and that the Council has reduced it to $300 (the reduction has not yet been made but only proposed) the "organ" says that "the emoluments of the office are reduced by this action of the Council just $1,200." In other words, according to backwoods Wisconsin arithmetic, the difference between a salary of $1,200 and a salary of $300 is $1,200. If a person who has been receiving $1,200 a year finds his pay cut down to $300, the reduction amounts to just the whole of the sum he originally received. This arithmetic is of a very different sort from that taught in the "rural academies" of Oregon. It doubtless served very well in Wisconsin where it was used in getting up false election returns, but the prejudices of the people of Oregon being in favor of a different system, there is little probability that it will ever become popular here. With the exception of the trifling errors we have pointed out, both of facts and figures, these particular statements of the "organ's" may pass without further critical notice. They are merely specimens of the style of reckless assertion and gross absurdity in which all its essays on city affairs, and indeed on most other subjects, are written. They are the offspring either of dense ignorance or of calculating dishonesty. It is amazing that any one will have the unblushing effrontery to publish habitually before a community statements which every person must know to be entirely without foundation, and which are often so clumsily constructed as to carry with them their own refutation. He who does this must be entirely insensible to the opinions of his fellow men. Such a character finds its counterpart in that compound of vice and vanity who contemptuously exclaimed: "A plague of public opinion; a man may wear it on both sides like a leather jerkin."

Gloomy Apprehensions.

From the Columbia Press, the Democratic paper published at Umatilla, we get this super-excellent doctrine

The OREGONIAN says that Jefferson Davis "expresses the greatest concern about the colored vote, and well he may. He knows that a horde of officials and fresh importations from Massachusetts are filling the minds of the poor blacks with a confusion of ideas about their rights, which they do not and cannot comprehend. He sees that the system of registration which is forced upon the South, precludes the idea of an intelligent expression at the ballot box; he knows that a party is in power whose determination is to rule or to ruin; he knows that the only object is to perpetuate the power of the fanatical party whose acts forced the South to a resort to arms; and he would be less than man, and more than devil, did he not feel a lively interest in the use which a servile and ignorant race might make of their sudden feature of rights, which intelligences alone can exercise. The time is not far distant when a majority of the people of the United States will wonder at their own hallucination and learn to respect the man who feels the utmost concern about the colored vote.

How President Davis' patriotic soul must be tortured with fears about the country's future welfare! No doubt it agonizes him to know that a party is in power determined to rule or ruin,—admirable man that he is who has always disapproved and deprecated such a proceeding. But unfortunately (so the Press thinks) Jefferson Davis is not now a favorite with a majority of the people of the United States, and they do not share his apprehensions nor sympathize with his afflictions. But the Press believes they will soon be cured of this "hallucination," learn to respect his principles and regret that they treated him and his "Confederacy" with so much indignity. That paper evidently has hopes that President Davis' next term of office will be spent at the White House.

INDIAN RESERVATIONS.—The Indian Commissioners have recently been making arrangements for the removal westward of several of the tribes. The Washington Chronicle says it is understood that the Commissioners are considering a "proposition which has been submitted to them, of forming a new reservation, to which the Indian tribes south of the Platte will be removed. It will embrace that portion of Northwestern Texas lying north of a line drawn due southwest from the initial monument on the Red river, at the southwestern corner of the Indian Territory, of New Mexico, about twenty miles north of the southwestern corner of that Territory. This change in our territorial map will make a boot-shaped territory of the Southern Indian reservations and increase them to twice their present size. This commission will also arrange for another reservation north of the Platte, probably in the northern half of Dakota Territory, embracing land through which the tributaries of the Missouri river run, and which abounds plentifully with fish and game. They expect to be able to meet the Kiowa tribes first, and will make arrangements with them to negotiate with other tribes, who are not as friendly with the whites."

DEATH OF THE OLDEST MAN IN ILLINOIS.—John Blount, the oldest man in Illinois, died lately, aged 100 or 110 years. He was born in Scotland, and married in Ohio at 51 years; at 96 years he followed his sons to Illinois, and is said to have lived an industrious, christian and abstemious life; never sick and never needing spectacles. Says the Danville Commercial:

He was intelligent, well read in history, vivacious and cheerful, and active in his habits in the year of his death. He could walk ten miles without inconvenience within his last six months. His death at last was quiet—the mere stoppage of the wheels of life, and an affair of no terror to his christian heart.

It is noticeable that whenever the editor of the "organ" finds himself in need of an illustration, he always brings in some sort of a comparison about "hurdy-gurdies" or "bawds." His illustrations of a subject are invariably got up on this principle. Take away this material, and the poverty of his ideas would be even more painfully apparent than now. But of course a writer must be left to choose the methods of illustration that best suit him.

Treatment of Union Prisoners of War.

The following circular has been issued by the Committee on the treatment of Prisoners of War and Union Citizens. All help which can be rendered toward this work should be made without delay. Justice to the living heroes who escaped from the clutches of the Southern hells, and justice to the noble boys who fell victims to the most systematic assassination that fiendishness could invent, demand that reliable information concerning the tortures of the one and the barbarous death of the others, should be collected and given to the world in the stark letters of the truth.

ROOMS OF THE COMMITTEE ON THE TREATMENT OF PRISONERS OF WAR AND UNION CITIZENS,
WASHINGTON, D. C., July 17, 1867.

"In pursuance of a series of resolutions passed by the House of Representatives, July 18, 1867, the undersigned were appointed a committee to investigate the Treatment of Prisoners of War and Union Citizens held by the Confederate authorities during the rebellion." All persons in possession of important information upon either of these subjects are earnestly requested to address the Committee as directed below

"First—The name and post office address of the writer

"Second—If a soldier or seaman; his rank or position, and with what command he served

"Third—A full statement of all facts known to the writer touching his own imprisonment or treatment, and that of others, either soldier or citizen, giving, as far as is possible, the names of places and dates, with the names of Confederate officers in charge.

"Correspondents from Missouri, Iowa, Kansas, Nebraska, Nevada, and the Territories east of the Rocky mountains will address William A Pile, M. C., Washington, D C.

"Correspondents from Illinois, Indiana, Wisconsin and Minnesota will address Abner C. Harding, M. C., Monmouth, Illinois.

"Correspondents from the New England States will address Aaron F. Stevens, M. C., Nashua, New Hampshire

"Correspondents from Ohio, Michigan, Kentucky and Tennessee, will address William Mungen, M. C., Findlay, Hancock Co., Ohio

"Communications addressed to the several members of the Committee will be free of postage. It is the intention of the Committee to collect all facts necessary to make a thorough official history of this subject. The various newspapers throughout the country are requested to give this Circular a gratuitous insertion, together with such notice as they may deem proper.

"John P. C. Shanks, Wm. A. Pile, Abner C Harding, Aaron S. Stevens, Wm. Mungen, Committee."

WHERE TO LOOK FOR AN ANSWER.—The Courier makes the inquiry: "Can a State secede?" and publishes an article two columns long in the endeavor to solve the problem. A great deal of trouble might have been avoided by the Courier on this point if it had only bethought itself of the simple expedient of turning for a solution to the record its party made in 1860-61. The Democracy then held that a State might secede at pleasure; or what comes to precisely the same thing, they held that there was no constitutional method by which secession could be prevented. Our last Democratic President took this position in his message of December, 1860; and his Attorney-General reiterated it in an elaborate official opinion. And the Democratic party throughout the country held that it was entirely unconstitutional to take any measures to prevent or defeat secession. When the Courier inquires if a State can secede, the answer is ready: The record of the Democratic party says that it can. Fortunately the record is explicit on this point, and the Courier by consulting it could have settled the question it asks in a much shorter space than two columns, and much more satisfactorily as well. Our advice to any Democrat who wishes to know whether a State can secede, is to read the history of his party. He will there find that when secession was an issue, his party answered this question in the affirmative.

A ROYAL VISITOR.—The Russian Grand Duke Alexis, the Czar's third son, is about to make a visit to the United States. He is a boy of eighteen, already a Colonel of an infantry regiment, and is also an officer in the Finland fleet. The Grand Duke has already commenced his travels; and after a long visit to Constantinople, left that city on the last of June to visit the monasteries of the Greek Church. He will subsequently proceed to Cadiz, where he will embark on board the Alexander Newski frigate, in which he will visit the West Indies, probably first going to Cuba, and thence to the United States, land at New Orleans, and extending his trip to Mobile. He may be expected in Washington early in October, and will also visit Richmond, Baltimore, Philadelphia, New York and Boston. It is not his programme at present, we are informed, that his Imperial Highness will proceed to the interior, but he will certainly proceed to Niagara, probably in company with Lord Monck, Viceroy of Canada, whose guest he will be during his visit to British North America. The Grand Duke is expected to reach St. Petersburg, after six months' absence, immediately before Christmas. The loyal part of the United States will be eager to do honor to the son of our most powerful and constant European friend. It can never be forgotten that during the war while nearly all other nations treated us at least coolly and indifferently, and many of them showing open hate, the Emperor of Russia, and all his country at his back, remained true in his friendship and outspoken in his sympathy, from the hour of the Sumter gun to the dying echoes of the field of final victory in Virginia.

THE IRRESISTIBLE GUN AND IMPREGNABLE FORTIFICATION.—Some 3 years ago that only permanently successful caricaturist of the world, Mr. Punch, gave a very amusing pen-picture of Sir William Armstrong and the Admiralty in their continuous efforts on the great gun and target question. It may be remembered as in the form of a yearly chronicle in brief, setting forth how year after year were invented, first, by Sir William an irresistible gun, and then by the Admiralty an impregnable target, which again, year after year, were succeeded by others, as they became in provoking alternation, successfully resisted or undeniably smashed. It seems now that they have tired of that little cat-and-mouse game, and have turned to the mowing-machine Yankee to see if he could help them out. The cable brought us news on Friday that in the Admiralty's experiments with the Rodman fifteen-inch gun they came to the conclusion that no iron nor steel armor yet invented could resist it. So far, good. It is a consummation devoutly to be wished if this be the end; but we fear that it is not yet. If John Bull can't resist the Rodman, let him be satisfied, and not appeal to Jonathan to solve that side of the riddle too. If targets and guns should get to be the rage over here, it would be like the ben-fever, oil-fever, and every other furore—all hands would want to take it up and experimentalize, and we should have one perennial Fourth of July until the desired steel target was accomplished, but only to institute new search for a Rodman worthy of that steel—and so on. It is maddening to contemplate.—N. Y. Times.

HONORARY DEGREES.—The Advocate has the following. It makes no explanatory introduction:

"At the recent commencement of the Williamette University, the degree of LL. D. was conferred on three prominent members of the legal profession: Geo. H. Williams, U. S. Senator, A. C. Gibbs, ex-Governor, M. P. Deady, Judge of the U. S. District Court. These are well educated gentlemen, eminent in their profession, patrons of learning, firm friends of the college and of irreproachable reputation. On such men the faculty and board deemed it fitting to bestow the honors of the institution. And yet their action has been mis represented and censured in the columns of the Sacramento Union by an Oregon correspondent who writes over the signature of "C," a scribbler who has a rare gift for nosing about and intermeddling with subjects that are outside the limited field of his vision and quite above his comprehension. His strictures, which are false as to facts and unworthy in spirit, are quite characteristic, yet they cannot damage any one in this section when the mental and moral idiosyncrasies of the writer are so well understood.

The gentlemen, at whom sneers and thrusts are directed, may console themselves with the reflection that the body of a lion cannot be seriously injured by the heels of an ass.

Mr. Burton, in his very pleasant book, The Scot Abroad, gives us some examples of the wit and good breeding of Lord Stair, the Ambassador. One of these, Mr. Burton tells us, "rests on his remarkable resemblance to the Regent Orleans, who, desiring to turn a scandalous insinuation or jest on it, asked the Ambassador if his mother had ever been in Paris? The answer was, "No; but my father was!" "There is perhaps, it is added, "no other retort on record so effective and so beautifully simple. If the question meant anything, that meaning was avenged; if it meant nothing, there was nothing in the answer.

Who are Responsible for the High Taxes?

Evil deeds always return to plague the doer. Our readers must have noticed that the rebel loving press of the North are unitedly clamoring about the weight of taxation. They studiously keep out of sight the fact that they caused the war, that they created our debt, that they made heavy taxation a necessity. This is thoroughly understood by the people, and is one of the causes of the detestation in which Copperheads are held. No honest man pays taxes in these days without heartily execrating the whole gang of the disloyal Democracy. And he is fully justified in doing so.

But there is another point to which we would direct attention. This same party not merely created the debt, but it did its best throughout the war to make the debt as great and as burdensome as possible. Buchanan's Secretary of the Treasury struck the first blow in that direction. And he succeeded so well that he had depleted the Treasury, and almost destroyed the national credit before Lincoln's administration was inaugurated. From this premeditated blow the country never fully recovered. Besides, we find, and all will remember, that throughout the whole war the Copperhead press in every part of the North, and the whole body of the party, systematically and persistently, and by every available means, sought to destroy the public credit. They told us all sorts of lies in regard to the first issue of greenbacks, they refused to accept them in payment, they talked about their worthlessness, they offered to take gold at long odds, they purchased gold at heavy premiums, and in every way sought to decry and make odious the public issues of which they had created the necessity. They did the same in relation to the subsequent issues, and also with regard to interest-bearing bonds. Their leaders organized cliques with all the capital they could muster, with the single purpose of depreciating the currency, reducing the value of public securities, and increasing the premium on gold. With their operations in New York at the Gold Board and 'Change' throughout the war the public is too painfully familiar. It understands the operations of the "Bulls" in gold throughout the whole war, and it knows full well that they were the chiefs of the Copperheads, who were engaged in trading not only in gold, but in the life-blood of our loyal soldiers. The great difference between the value of our currency and gold was made thus inordinate by the efforts of these vampires. Gold, we believe, would never have got above fifty per cent. premium, but for this incessant Copperhead war upon the public credit. Had the pretended Democracy been truly loyal, our public debt, to-day, would have been a thousand millions less than it is. Indeed, that is too small an estimate. Their loyalty would have enabled us to close the war within two years, perhaps in one, and so would have brought the debt down to a mere nominal sum comparatively. But if the war had lasted the five years it in fact did, and the Democracy had sustained the public credit half as energetically as they sought to destroy it, our debt to-day would have been fully one thousand millions less than it is.

Their course in regard to public credit was consistent with their support of the rebels and their hatred of the Union. It was consistent with nothing else. They are doing the same thing still. They are injuring public credit by their absurd schemes and declarations, in regard to taxation and public securities. Their whole policy on these subjects look forward to absolute repudiation, not only as possible, but as so desirable that they are scheming to make sure of it if they can attain the power. Their platform in this State proposes to repudiate it in part by violating the original contract. It declares that bonds shall be taxed which the contract exempted from taxation.

When these infamous enemies of the nation prate about taxation hereafter, let them be whipped into their kennels by the honest indignation of loyal men. Let them be told that their own taxation is not a thousandth part heavy enough, that if justice were done the property of rebels and copperheads would be appropriated to the payment of the debt they created and made enormous. They are to blame for all. Let them be thankful that the whole burden is not thrown upon them, as it ought to be.—Burlington Hawk-eye.

A woman in St. Louis, named Meyer, disgusted with life on account of ill treatment from her husband, determined to commit suicide by shooting herself with a cannon ball, which had been around the house for some time, a relic of Vicksburg. Not exactly understanding the science of gunnery, she got half a dollar's worth of powder, placed it on a plate on the floor, piled the ball on the powder, sat down upon it, and touched a match to the powder, fondly expecting instant death from the fatal ball. It did not "go off," however, although the powder did; and she is suffering from painful and dangerous wounds.

The Richmond Dispatch has seen a curious relic of the late civil war, picked up between the picket lines in front of Petersburg. It consists of two bullets, one fired from the Confederate and the other from the Yankee lines, which met so full as to be mashed flat, one into the other. Being the conical shaped Minie balls, they must have met on precisely the same line of axis, and and both being mashed equally flat, they must have been going at the same velocity. Such an amicable meeting between such deadly missels from opposing forces would hardly take place once in ten million times.

It is related that Col. Oake, Collector at the port of Philadelphia, the other day received a note from Secretary McCulloch, who stated that he had heard with mingled surprise and indignation that he (the Collector) had appointed to subordinate places in the Custom House "men who had abused President Johnson." To this charge Col Oake responded that he did not know where to look for anybody who had not abused him. The Democrats abused him before his election and the Republicans since that event, so he had been abused all around.

The Enquirer, the leading organ of the Ohio Democracy, is very savage with Sunset Cox for nominating General Grant for the Presidency. Of the General, it says, he is "arbitrary in disposition, vindictive in temper, intent upon only his personal elevation, and utterly ignorant or regardless of the first principles of our government, he has been from the beginning the subservient tool of the leaders who are lording it over the rump Congress, serving them in his sphere as much as Stanton or Holt, or detective Baker have in theirs." It predicts for him the fate of Scott, if nominated.

An overseer of a large cotton plantation tells the following:

I can tell you how you can break a nigger of running away. There was an old fellow I used to know in Georgia that always cured his so. If a nigger ran away, when he caught him he would bind his knee over a log an fasten him so he could not stir, then he would take a pair of pincers and pull one of his toe nails out by the roots, and tell him that if he ever ran away again, he would pull out two of them, and so on, doubling each time. He never had to do it more than once; it always cured them.

ARTESIAN WELL AT TERRE HAUTE.—An artesian well has been sunk at Terre Haute, to the depth of 1,736 feet. At the depth of 840 feet, the borers had a show of petroleum, at the depth of 1,270 feet, lubricating oil, at the depth of 1,620 feet, more oil, at 1,633 feet, blue sulphur water, and at the final depth, a large flow of white sulphur water was secured, and the result was a satisfactory reward to the experimenters.

THE FAVORABLE TIME HAS ARRIVED.—Those new goods have arrived at KOHN & FISHEL'S and are now open to inspection. We can assure the ladies that they can now find on KOHN & FISHEL'S counters, the handsomest, cheapest and most desirable dress goods—from oil cloth to the richest and most costly fabrics—that have been brought to Portland since the war began. NOW IS THE TIME for housewives to buy now supplies of cotton goods; prices are reduced so much as to astonish everybody. In the latest styles of business suits and FASHIONABLE CLOTHING, Kohn & Fishel are now able to eclipse any house in this city, and the goods are of the very best quality and make. There never was such a chance in Portland for BARGAINS IN FAVOR OF THE BUYER.

Buchtel's Photograph Gallery is the only establishment in Oregon that is thoroughly prepared to do all the different styles of work in the art. Photographs from card to life size. The new cabinet cards, &c., &c. Small pictures enlarged (retouched in India ink—painted in water colors or oil by Mrs S J. Ramsey. Pictures that are fading can be reproduced in this way. All negatives taken in this gallery will be carefully preserved, and additional copies had. I have now on hand a very large selection of negatives, the names of which are recorded alphabetically in a book for that purpose that can be seen in the reception room.

MARRIED:

AN ASYLUM FOR USELESS YOUNG MEN.—An exchange suggests that, while asylums are established in every State, for the insane, for idiots, the poor, the cripple, the aged, etc, it is singular that no philanthropist has ever started the idea of building a similar institution for "useless young men." And yet in every community there is a certain per cent of them who ultimate fate must excite the sympathy of every one who has a "spare" to devote to the special benefit of the unfortunate. It wants to know "what will become of them." We do not put the question as to their future state, but how will they round off their earthly existence? They have no visible means of support, still they hang on, they vegetate, they keep above ground. In a certain literal sense, they may be said to live, move and have a being. They lounge in offices, promenade the streets, appear at social amusements, play the gallant to good natured ladies and attend to the necessities of lap dogs. Their more quiet and undemonstrative lives may be described as an intermittent torpor, in which meals, cigars, drinks and sleep mark the changes. Their existence would be a mystery, but for their certain certain relations to other substantial people known familiarly as "pa," "ma," or "better half," who are able to make provision for the wants and protection of their bodies in the way of clothes and food; still, ought these tender young men to be left to the chances of parental or domestic affection? All are not equally fortunate. What shall we do with these whose dependencies are precarious? They do not admit of any utilitarian disposition. In compliant countries they could be eaten as a substitute for veal; their bodies would also make excellent fertilizers for sterile lands, but the prejudices of a Christian people would revolt at this solution of the problem. A certain number could be employed as lay figures in shop windows to exhibit clothes on, but the tailors might not have confidence in them. Most of them could color mezzochanns, but the business would produce little revenue. What, then, shall be done? The writer suggests that as in the present condition of society, the tax of sustaining them falls on a few, and therefore with heavy force, the State ought to equalize the burden by establishing an asylum. The suggestion is a good one. The institution could start final handed Portland could furnish a baker's dozen or two; and not feel her loss as irretrievable or her grief inconsolable. Who will start the enterprise? Give the useless young men a chance; and at the same time relieve the useful members of society from the solicitude they must necessarily feel at the uncertain fate of so large a class of the population.

TRAGEDY AT THE DALLES.—Rev. J. H. Wilbur of the Simcoe Reservation, who came down from the Dalles yesterday, called on us in the evening and gave us the particulars of a tragedy enacted at the Dalles during the night of Wednesday, resulting in the death of Marshal Chas. Keeler. During Wednesday evening, a number, of the soldiers who were up from Vancouver, were drinking and carousing in a barely friendly saloon on Main street. They were so noisy that Mr Keeler remarked to Mr Wilbur with whom he was talking, that he thought he should have work to do before the revel should cease. Later in the evening, the soldiers became so disorderly that the Marshal made a raid on them and arrested three or four. This was about 12, midnight. One of the soldiers evaded him at first, but about one o'clock, Mr. Keeler found him, when the soldier ran, Mr. Keeler pursuing. After running a short distance, the soldier turned suddenly and fired his musket, the ball, a sabule, striking Mr. Keeler just under the region of the heart and passing through the stomach. Persons who heard the firing ran to the spot and found him prone on the ground. He was at once carried to the Umatilla Hotel where he expired in about forty minutes and within an hour and a quarter from the time he was shot. He was conscious to the last, and described the man who fired the fatal bullet. The officers immediately instituted a thorough search for the murderer, and when Mr. W. left, yesterday morning, three or four men had been arrested; but it was not possible at that time to tell whether the right man had been caught. Mr. Keeler was about 40 years old; had been several years Marshal of the Dalles, was a most fearless, energetic and efficient officer. He leaves a wife and one child, both of whom were absent at the time of the tragedy, on a visit down the river. A messenger came down on the steamer yesterday, charged with the sad news to them.

PASSENGERS FOR SAN FRANCISCO.—The steamship Montana, Wm. Metzger, commander, sailed for San Francisco at 8½ o'clock P. M., yesterday, with the following list of passengers: S M Brock, B Knapp, A Hamilton Thresher, C J Pillsbury, Maj S Francis, U S A, and servant, Lieut C B Western, U S A, Jno Wright, M Mayer, Thomas Cross, L Bettman, Louis Pfeiffenberger, D Worsham, Mrs D Wortham and child, Mrs Louis Pfeiffenberger and child, Mrs L Mayer, Mrs Wm Murphy, D Stice, Courtland Waite, M Hyman, E Brown, L Brown, S Claysburg, Wm Waggerman, R H Law, Mas Annie E Durkee, John Grimes, O McDonough, J Connor, Jesse Ugalde, Wm Kennedy, George Ryland, J Alexander, Wm Dourneyer, Dr Mitchell, Dr J B Lee, W H Bennett, Jos Watt, Wm Moore, L A Harris, G R Fancett, Col R S Williamson, U S A, J T Best, Arthur Haines, Mat Graham, Mrs Mary Copsey, Mrs Husted and child, Mrs J H Howell, Miss M Kirk, Mrs P A Nottage, Mrs M Watkins and child, Mrs N S Marsh, C H Case, Mrs Starr and child, Mrs A Jones, H C Bronson, J E Conner, M M Harvey, W H McFarland, M Koshmeyer, W W Harlow, E Kahn, John Fletcher, J J Fletcher, P Kelly, T Riley, Mrs Clark and two children, and 65 in the steerage.

LAYING ON OF LODGES.—Capt. Adams writes us from Grand Mound, W. T., Aug. 31st, that on the 23d he organized a Lodge of Good Templars of ten charter members, at Montecino, the county-seat of Chehalis county, W. T. The Lodge takes the name of "Philadelphia Lodge." The following is the list of officers: Joseph Mace, W. C. T.; Miss Eliza Medcalf, W. V. T.; Isabella L. Scammon, W. S. & L. D.; Mrs. Lorinda Scammon, W. F. S.; Mrs. Ann Mace, W. T.; James M. Medcalf, W. M.; Mrs. Emma Hill, W. I. G.; Henry Baker, P. W. C. T.

On the 29th he organized "Waterloo Lodge" at Elma, Chehalis county, of ten charter members, with the following list of officers: David F. Byles, W. C. T.; Mrs Margaret Young, W. V. T.; Joseph T. Young, W. S. & L. D.; Alexander Hamilton, W. F. S.; Miss Evangeline S. C. Brewer, W. T.; James H. Brewer, W. M.; Mrs. Mary J. Byles, W. I. G.; Jimmerson Hamilton, W. O. G.; Mortimer W. Fletcher, W. C.; Miss Nancy E. Waldrip, P. W. C. T.

LATER NEWS.—Yesterday morning we stated that very favorable news had been received from Colonel Ruckle's mill in Eastern Oregon. Since that news was received, later and fuller intelligence has arrived by letter. It is stated that the amount of rock crushed in the run was one hundred and twelve tons and the yield from it, over $7,000. This result was obtained from rock no better than the average of that ground heretofore from which no profit were returned, and seems to indicate good management. The mine itself prospects better than ever; from which several facts, it is rendered certain that with proper management, the mine will prove richly remunerative.

OREGON IRON FOR SAN FRANCISCO.—It will be noticed that the Montana's freight list contains as one of the items of freight, "50 tons pig iron." This is the initial shipment of Oregon iron, and, naturally enough, the manner of its reception in California will be waited for with some interest. Should its qualities be acknowledged there as claimed here, we may reasonably expect that Oregon will in a short time supply California to the exclusion of imported raw iron. It is confidently stated that the pigs can be laid down in San Francisco at a less figure than is now paid for the imported article, and still leave a wide margin for profits.

FREIGHT FOR SAN FRANCISCO.—The following freight was shipped by the Montana, yesterday, for San Francisco: 6,854 qr sks flour, 511 sks middlings, 50 tons pig iron, 25 cases rolls, 15 bales do., 6 trunks do., 2 kegs do., 8 bales wool, 2 bales furs, 1 roll leather, 14 dry hides, 65 cases bacon, 25 gunnies do, 102 hf bbls dried fruit, 110 hf bbls butter, 13 boxes butter, 42 bbls salmon, 20 hf bbls do., 17 boxes tobacco, 113 boxes fruit, 20 empty ale barrels, 875 bdls shooks, 70 bdls hoops, 131 hf bbls do.

ANTI-SPIRITUALISM LECTURES.—A series of lectures, combating the dogmas of modern spiritualism, by Rev E. W. Foster, of the Washington Conference of the Christian Church, opened in East Portland on Wednesday evening, and will be continued each evening during this week. The lectures begin at 7 P. M., each evening at the district school house. Though no challenge has been offered by Mr. Foster, he expresses a willingness to meet any of the advocates of spiritualism at either of his lectures.

ON SOARING WINGS.—A Fourth of July orator, of California, delivered a "oration" on the last recurrence of the National holiday, of which the following bifurcation of bifurcation we have met with lately, is the peroration: "With Vital Nationality animating the Golden Hued Daughter of the Pacific, and diffusing a spirit of Unity, Peace and Concord among her Elder Sisters of the Atlantic, the American Republic, in the luminous Future, shall become the Local Centre of Liberty, Enlightenment and Empire."

LEE & RYLAND'S CIRCUS.—This circus after two very successful nights here, has suspended operations for the present, and the stock has been taken out to ranch a mile or two from the city. Mr. Ryland went passenger by the Montana to San Francisco, for the purpose of engaging additional talent and attractions with a view to playing at our State, fair, and probably afterward in several parts of the State not visited during their recent tour.

WILLAMETTE FREIGHTS.—Arrived per steamer Senator, from Oregon city, Thursday, Sept. 5th. 16 bales woolen goods, 21 bales mdse, 4 cases mdse, 27 hf bbls miscellaneous produce, 11 boxes do, 22 gunnies bacon, 3 boxes eggs, 1 coop chickens, 2,400 qr sks flour, 68 boxes apples, 4 trunks mdse, 5 empty cases, 1 roll leather, 105 bags barley, 80 hides and lot sheepskins.

TEMPERANCE LECTURE.—Ex-Gov Gibbs will deliver a lecture on Temperance and Good Templars, this evening, at the invitation of the Grand Lodge. It will be public, but we have not learned what room will be occupied. The Good Templar's Hall was thought to be too small, and a committee was appointed to procure the use of a larger one. The place will probably be announced by posters, to-day.

PUBLIC MEETING OF THE GRAND LODGE.—At the session of the Grand Lodge I. O. G. T., last evening, arrangements were made for a public meeting of the lodge this evening at the M. E. Church, on which occasion the address of ex-Gov Gibbs, (mentioned elsewhere), will be delivered, together with addresses from other members of the order.

RECORDER'S COURT.—In this court, yesterday, the case of the State vs. John Bolton, charge, stealing a boat, continued till this morning.

Wm. Brown, a colored boy, was brought up on a charge of assaulting another boy. Upon inquiry it was found he was the wrong boy, and was discharged upon motion of the prosecuting attorney.

GENERAL AGENTS.—Persons in the city or country, who desire the services of an agent, would do well to read the advertisement of Parrish & Atkinson. They have been for several years in the business and are well acquainted both with the people and the business of the country.

GRAND LODGE, I. O. G. T.—The officers of the Grand Lodge, I. O. G. T., were installed yesterday, in their several chairs. By a vote of the lodge it was determined to hold the next annual session at Albany on the first Tuesday in September, 1868. A case came up on appeal, involving the question whether the disbarring of a member from any branch of any age is a violation of the pledge, it was decided affirmatively. The Lodge held a session last evening for work in the degrees.

RUN OVER.—We learn that a boy at Oregon City, whose names we failed to learn was run over by a horse on Wednesday afternoon and seriously injured.

TREASURE SHIPMENT.—Wells, Fargo & Co shipped, last evening by the Montana, for themselves and others, $100,000 in treasure, for San Francisco.

SEA SICK.—Senator Williams and wife were tendered the compliment of a serenade, last evening, by the 14th Infantry Band of Vancouver.

TREASURE RECEIPT.—By the boat from the Cascades, yesterday, Wells, Fargo & Co. received $25,000 in treasure.

U. S. CIRCUIT COURT.—No business in this court yesterday, in consequence of the failure of attorneys to be in readiness.

AMERICAN PRINCESSES.—The Hartford Courant gives the following readable gossip on this subject.

American princesses are not so rare as is generally supposed. Quite a number of the fair daughters of Uncle Sam wear "that sweet impost" which Shakspeare tells us is a princely characteristic. The eldest son of the great Murat married on the 30th of July, 1826, while residing in the country, the beautiful Caroline Dudley, a grand niece of George Washington. Her husband died in 1847, but the Princess Murat is still living. The wife of the living Prince Lucian Murat—the head of his house—was Caroline Georginia Fraser, an American lady, who was born on the 13th of April, 1810, and married the Prince on the 15th of August, 1831, during his residence in this country. The sons and daughters of the Prince and Princess Murat, with one exception, were all born in this country. The Murats pay great attention to such of their American relatives and acquaintances as visit them in Paris. Then there is the Princess de Noer, who four years ago was plain Miss Esther Lee, daughter of David Lee, a wealthy citizen of New York. On the 3d of November, 1861, she married Prince Frederick of Schleswig-Holstein Sonderburg-Augustenberg, who, three days after the wedding, was created Prince de Noer by the Emperor of Austria. Less than a year afterwards, on the 2d of July, 1862, the Prince de Noer died while on a voyage of pleasure at Buyrut, Syria. The widowed Princess resides, we believe, in Vienna. By her marriage she became the aunt of that Prince Christian of Schleswig-Holstein, who recently married the Princess Helen, Queen Victoria's third daughter.

Another late instance of an American lady becoming a Princess, is that of the Princess Salm-Salm. Her husband, Prince Felix Salm-Salm, was a rather wild and adventurous member of the great Austrian house of Salm Salm, who came to this country at the outbreak of the rebellion, offered his services to the Federal Government and rose to the rank of Brigadier-General. He married Agnes Le Clerq, daughter of Col. Le Clerq, of our volunteer service. It is this Princess Salm-Salm who lately made such strenuous efforts to save the life of Maximilian, the Prince, after the close of our civil war, having joined the Mexican Imperial army. Her acts in this connection will entitle her to the gratitude of Francis Joseph, and both she and her husband will doubtless take a high position upon their arrival in Vienna, among the titled members of the Austrian court circles. We say nothing about the venerable Madame Bonaparte of Baltimore, who, if she had her rights, would be styled Princess. And as for duchesses, and countesses, and baronesses, there are any number of American women who have attained through marriage these minor noble titles.

We rather like the reason said to have been given by Professor Anderson, of Rochester University, for declining to leave that college and accept the Presidency of Brown University. Professor Anderson said: "I felt that those who had invested in me when I was comparatively worthless, had a right to the benefit of any rise in the stock."

The Montpelier, (Vt.,) Freeman, says that Mr. Bradley, senior counsel for Surratt, offered Mr. Hobart, an important witness for the Government, $1,000 if he would testify that he was mistaken in saying that the prisoner passed over the Vermont Central Railroad in April. Mr. Hobart indignantly rejected the bribe.

THERE IS NO USE TALKING, the Portland people will patronize Lee's Gloves and buy their Custom-made Clothing of Berman Bros., on corner of Front and Morrison sts.

FIRST NATIONAL BANK OF IDAHO—BOISE CITY, I. T.—Organized March 11th, 1867, (with circulation) under Act of Congress, approved June 3d, 1864. Authorized capital $500,000. Paid up capital, $100,000. B. M. Dalliell, President. C. W. Moore, Cashier. Collections of Notes and Accounts on the principal places in Idaho Territory promptly attended to. Exchange for Coin or Currency on this Bank can be purchased of Ladd & Tilton, Portland, Oregon.

"IN CITY OR COUNTRY," in town or hamlet, the FAMILY DYE COLORS are equally popular. Storekeepers say it is no use to have any but the Howe & Stevens stamp, for the people know no others and believe in none. They are equally the best, the most reliable and the cheapest. Sold by Smith & Davis.

PERRY DAVIS' PAIN KILLER.

Travelers are always liable to sudden attacks of dysentery and cholera morbus, and these occurring when absent from home are very unpleasant. PERRY DAVIS VEGETABLE PAIN KILLER may always be relied upon in such cases. As soon as you feel the symptoms, take one teaspoonful in a gill of new milk and it checks, and a gill of hot water. Stir well together and drink hot. Repeat the dose every hour until relieved. If the pains be severe, bathe the bowels and back with the medicine, clear.

Fishermen, so often exposed to hurts by having their skin pierced with hooks and fins of fish, can be much relieved by bathing with a little Pain Killer as soon as the accident occurs; in this way the anguish is soon abated, bathe as often as once in five minutes, say three or four times, and you will seldom have any trouble. Sold by dealers everywhere.

HELMBOLD'S EXTRACT BUCHU and IMPROVED ROSE WASH cures secret and delicate disorders in all their stages, at little expense, little or no change in diet, no inconvenience and no exposure. It is pleasant in taste and odor, immediate in its action and free from all injurious properties.

Answer to Correspondents.

Mark Twain while figuring as an editor was very happy in his answers to correspondents. We give one of the most humorous as an illustration of his remarkable reasoning powers and the extreme lucidness that characterizes his writings.

"DISCARDED LOVER."—"I loved and still love, the beautiful Edwitha Howard, and intended to marry her. Yet, during my temporary absence at Benicia, last week, alas! she married Jones. (a my happiness to be thus blasted for life? Have I no redress?"

Of course you have. All the law, written and unwritten, is on your side. The intention and not the act constitutes crime—in other words constitutes the deed. If you call your bosom friend a fool and intend it for an insult, it is an insult, but if you do it playfully, and meaning no insult, it is not an insult. If you discharge a pistol accidentally, and kill a man, you can go free, for you have done no murder; but if you try to kill a man, and manifestly intend to kill him, but fail utterly to do it, the law still holds that the intention constituted the crime, and you are guilty of murder. Ergo, if you had married Edwitha accidentally, and without really intending to do it, you would not actually be married to her at all, because the act of marriage could not be complete without the intention. And ergo, in the strict spirit the law, since it was your intention to marry Edwitha, but didn't, you are married to her all the same—because, as I said before, the intention constitutes the crime. It is as clear as day that Edwitha is your wife, and your redress lies in taking a club and mutilating Jones with it as much as you can. Any man has a right to protect his own wife from the advances of other men. But you have another alternative—you were married to Edwitha first, because of your deliberate intention, and now you can prosecute her for bigamy, in subsequently marrying Jones. But there is another phrase in this complicated case. You intended to marry Edwitha, and consequently, according to law, she is your wife—there is no getting around that; but she didn't marry you, and if she never intended to marry you, you are not her husband, of course. Ergo, in marrying Jones, she was guilty of bigamy, because she was the wife of another man at the time, which is all very well as far as it goes—but then don't you see, she had no other husband when she married Jones, and consequently she was not guilty of bigamy. Now, according to this view of the case, Jones married a spinster, who was a widow at the same time and another man's wife at the same time, and yet who had no husband, as I never had one, and never had any intention of getting married, and therefore, of course, never had been married; and by the same reasoning you are a bachelor, because you have never been another person's husband; and a married man, because you have a wife living; and to all legal and purposes a widower, because you have been deprived of that wife; and a consummate fool for going to Benicia in the first place, while things were so much excited. And by this time I have got myself so tangled up in the intricacies of this extraordinary case that I shall have to give up any further attempt to advise you—I might get confused and fail to make myself understood. I think I could take up the argument where I left off, and by toil using it slowly awhile, perhaps I could prove to your satisfaction, either that you never existed at all or that you are dead now, and consequently I never loved the faithless Edwitha. I think I could find that, if it would afford you any comfort.

HARD TO SUPPRESS.—In the ranks of the Democracy at present there is a class of [illegible] who are giving their time-serving brethren much anxiety. In Oregon the States's Democrat and Unit a Press refuse to acknowledge that the name is "dust," and refuse to poke under their noses at their friends the rest of those past services throw the party the "last ditch." They seem to be oblivious to the fact that Kansas was taken or slavery [illegible]. The Missouri Compromise, Fugitive Slave Law, Kansas-Nebraska, etc., seem to be all their dreams, and the Roanwell and Davis Revolt of the [illegible] is only trying to [illegible] Revolt of the [illegible] said, who, being [illegible] to [illegible] less principle for opening the ranks of the party to the [illegible] of the Union rebels is to encourage them from loyalty by [illegible] honors upon [illegible] traitors to the rule and use of the "dust."

This is what he says to our consistent party of the Democrat and his Umatilla [illegible]

[illegible] men who prefer defeat to any compromise with those with whom they have disagreed. If here, take to themselves no part of the [illegible] of the Democratic [illegible] Connecticut, [illegible] was achieved by compromise, and Gov. [illegible] was a very sensible War Democrat. Let [illegible] be said or done, we to the Democracy [illegible] people, for they are [illegible] ing for Governor [illegible] Republican who voted for Lincoln in [illegible] and Col. [illegible] a Republican candidate for Congress in 1862, a stamping the State [illegible] Democratic ticket [illegible] every part of the Democracy in Oregon are [illegible] From Press's army who retired in good [illegible] upon this coast, as it is by means give up [illegible] them will [illegible] to the Democrat Post as their [illegible] and we are much mistaken if they do not [illegible] and his sort to [illegible] of the nation. We much prefer the former [illegible] do or opposition [illegible] we know where to [illegible]—Albany Democrat.

[illegible] Axle Grease.—A safe, honorable and [illegible] This impression was familiar [illegible] the war. Every [illegible] understood it, or [illegible] he did. And when actual hostilities [illegible] and the thunder of battles was hushed, [illegible] thought the great object of their aspirations attained. The armies were rapidly disbanded, [illegible] and the soldiers merged with the citizen population. The arms were returned to arsenals, the [illegible] battered flags were [illegible] and placed in honorable retirement, and the blue ceased to be the [illegible] of the nation.

But one is inclined to think, in the view of the [illegible] two years, did we understand the expression [illegible] "peace to the sword." Either we did not, or we [illegible] disappointed in our hopes by the action of the late insurgents since the insurrection [illegible] suppressed. The same disposition and temper [illegible] has been exhibited as during the continuance of hostilities. The measures taken for making [illegible] safe, honorable and enduring, have met [illegible] by opposition, not only from the representatives of rebel opinion and passion in the [illegible], but scarcely less from their former allies in the [illegible]. At the very moment, as much as at any [illegible] time, this opposition is embarrassing and delaying the pacification and political unity of the country.

The tortuous and tricky policy, adopted to frustrate the action of Congress for restoring order and peace to the country, is alone responsible for the delay. And it is the same cause that has required additional stringency in the measures by which the grand object is to be compassed. And it is absurd and puerile to complain of the firmness of Congress, while it is only seeking by civil means the same object that was justly sought by the sword, and is only counteracting, by legislation, a [illegible] and hostile policy, which for years it [illegible] in arms. Let us have, in still the wish of the people, a safe, honorable and lasting peace—no surrender to the vanquished, no compromise with wrong—a Union, strong, peaceful and perpetual as right can make it.

THOUGHTS OF TWO ENGLISHMEN.—The London Times on the 20th of July, 1862, not quite five years ago, uttering the following sentiment concerning the United States of America:

"The Federals * * * their wealth is turned into poverty—their prosperity into wretchedness. The power in which they gloried is effaced. Law is trampled under foot, and the country is fast falling into anarchy, the only refuge from which is despotism; and we do not scruple to say that we shall rejoice if the worst of these be realized."

On the 29th of June, 1867, at a public breakfast given to Mr. Garrison, in London, John Bright presiding, and Earl Russell being one of the principal speakers, some remarks were made by Mr Vernon Harcourt, a leading law authority, and author of the essays in the Times, signed "Historicus," which attracted so much attention during the war of the rebellion. He said:

He believed that the future of mankind was to be looked upon above all in the history of that great nation of the West which had sprung from our loins. It was the proudest reflection for an Englishman—and on looking westward we might be allowed to feel pride—that the people derived from us those traditions of liberty, those instincts for government, those capacities for greatness, which had made them what they were, and would make them greater still."

If you want to succeed, said a cynical Frenchman, you have only to be successful.

The Methodists have decided upon founding a college in connection with their missions in India. It is to be located in the city of Lucknow. It will receive the higher and brighter pupils from their mission schools, and take them through a secular collegiate course. In these different schools there are now about 3,000 pupils.

Mrs. Lincoln is now in Racine, boarding at Congress Hall. She is simply spending the summer there. She dresses in deep mourning, does not receive company, nor appear at the common table. It is not true that she intends to make her home there.

A newspaper correspondent describes a visit of Jeff Davis to a Montreal theater, where, as the bills announced, "Ex-President Davis would be at the Theater Royal, to witness the performance for the benefit of his suffering country." Referring to the bills, we find the very appropriate farce, "His Last Legs" there. The entrance of Jeff Davis was the signal for enthusiastic cheers, which the Confederate chieftain acknowledged by rising and bowing. The correspondent goes on to say:

Then came calls for the "Bonny Blue Flag," "Dixie," and other standard rebel songs. The orchestra gave them "Dixie" amid cheers. One of the more excitable John Bulls shouted so as to be heard above the tumult, "We shall live to see the South a nation yet," at which there was a fervent "amen."

This writer goes on with what we suspect is an apocryphal yarn, about a scene after the departure from the theater

Just as the carriage was leaving, an unknown person, observed only by a few, stepped up and handed Mr. Davis a note, which he carried to his home. Coming to the light it was opened and found to contain the single word, written in a bold hand, "Andersonville." This, it is said, went like a dagger to his heart, and for some time his home was the scene of the greatest consternation."

The question is, how did this reporter know what was going on? Was he concealed under the bed, or did he rush in from outside, at the sound of hysterical shrieks?" However, we have no doubt that "Andersonville" is a disagreeable theme for Mr. Davis to think about, and the ten thousand Union boys and men who died of sheer neglect and cruelty there, must furnish unpleasant statistics for him to reflect upon. Hence the story is well invented.—Army and Navy Journal.

A VOICE FROM RICHMOND.—The Richmond Enquirer is decidedly belligerent under its new management, and takes grounds against any participation in the acts of Congress. It says:

"When General Lee surrendered his sword, it was to grim necessity, not to Grant. When the States repealed their ordinances of secession, it was only a formal expunction of what was already a dead letter in law. When they ratified the emancipation it was only acknowledging that the war had left them too weak to preserve the institution of slavery any longer. Do the advocates of "co-operation" think that necessity compels us to "co-operate?" Can it be shown that we are obliged to enlist with the Black Republican party, and march with them to the accomplishment of their ends? Shall we presume the necessity of it before exhausting all means of escape or resistance? Have we, indeed, exhausted all such means? The sword has failed—we should not again draw it from its scabbard. But is there no weapon mightier than the sword? There is! It is the patient fortitude of a heroic people. The courage to endure is greater than the spirit to achieve. In many a stern clash of arms we have displayed the heroism of action; let us now display the sublimer heroism of suffering.

THE GLORY OF MAN IS STRENGTH.—Therefore the nervous and debilitated should immediately use HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS.

"CAPITAL CITY CHRONICLE."

J. H. UPTON & A. HOLTNER, Proprietors.

ON SATURDAY, AUGUST 31, 1867, A LARGE SIZE WEEKLY PAPER, with the above title, will be issued at SALEM, OREGON.

The CHRONICLE will be devoted to Politics, News, and the developments of the varied resources of the State. In politics the CHRONICLE will be unflinchingly Democratic, supporting and advocating all those reforms in National and State polity, so urgently demanded at the present time by every consideration involving the weal of the American people. The necessity for a Democratic organ firmly planted at the Capital, will be at once apparent to every thinking Democrat in the State. Such a one we propose to make the CAPITAL CITY CHRONICLE, and with the State thoroughly Democratic to-day, with all prospective changes in favor of that party, there is no valid reason why the enterprise shall not prove a complete success.

While the CHRONICLE will devote ample space to the discussion of political topics, the News of the day, the Agricultural Mining, Mechanical and Manufacturing interests of the State at large will receive due attention. A twenty-eight column paper, 26x38 inches in size, will furnish ample space and enable us to present in each number an amount of reading matter equal to the importance of the interests involved. We only ask at the hands of the people that legitimate patronage which shall enable us to present a sheet in every way creditable to ourselves and the State—one which none may have the least reason to be ashamed of.

All contracts for advertising and subscription existing with the late Democratic Review will be faithfully executed by the proprietor of the CHRONICLE.

Terms of Subscription:

Rheumatism Cured!

State of Oregon, County of Multnomah—ss.

I JEREMIAH BROOK, BEING DULY SWORN, SAY that I am fifty-three years of age, that I reside in Yamhill County, State of Oregon. I came to Portland on business, on horseback, from my home this morning. When I left home I could scarcely walk or stand on my feet, from Rheumatism, which has afflicted me for the last eight years. I was standing in Wilson's store, on First street, in this city, when I heard Mr. Resnick's offer to bet that he would take out the Rheumatism in any case in twenty minutes. Resnicks offered to bet $100 that he could do it. I went to Mr. Resnick's house and he applied the Liniment to my leg, and in twenty minutes my leg felt sound and limber, and as well as ever. CARD.

DR. BARLOW J. SMITH'S WATER CURE AND Phrenological Institute, 627 Sacramento Street, San Francisco. This is the only Regular Water Cure in Francisco, where all curable diseases are treated without drugs. Dr. Smith was the first to establish a water cure on this coast, based upon the theory and practice of the New York Hydropathic College.

We have a truly healthful boarding place for men, women and children, and our prices are moderate.

The Phrenological organs plainly indicate the diseases to which any person, male or female, is predisposed.

Put this card in your hat, and when you come to San Francisco, call on Dr. Smith. He will give you consultation and a phrenological examination in regard to health. It will cost you nothing and may save you months and years of ill health and "bad luck."

Dr. Smith gives free lectures to gentlemen every Friday evening, on subjects pertaining to health, at his Phrenological Hall, 627 Sacramento Street.

To Soldiers Claiming Bounties
UNDER THE
EQUALIZATION BOUNTY BILL!

THE UNDERSIGNED, HAVING RECENTLY RETurned from Washington City, where he has made the proper arrangements for the collection of the Extra Bounty of $100 allowed to all soldiers enlisted after the 19th day of April, 1861, for a period of not less than three years, and $50 for soldiers enlisted for a period of not less than two years.

Persons entitled to the benefits of said Bounty will find it to their interest to attend to its collection at once. Having an Agent at Washington, and personal knowledge of the mode of making collections through the Department, I can get returns promptly.

☞ Call with your Discharge, and two witnesses for identification, at the Publication Office of the Daily Oregonian, No. 5 Washington St., Portland.

A. BUSHWILLER, Claim Agent.
